

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The digital camera includes a photographing unit which picks-up image data, a storage control unit which stores the image data, a reconstruction control unit which 5 reconstructs the stored image data, an image data processing unit which combines the picked-up image data and the reconstructed image data, and stores the produced image data into the recording medium, a display control unit makes a display unit simultaneously display the picked-up image data 10 for monitoring and the reconstructed image data, or makes the display unit display the image data generated by the image data processing unit.